

THE PITTSBURGH PRESS
PITTSBURGH, PENNSYLVANIA
10 FEBRUARY 1917

Current Magazines

"Is Mark Twain really dead?" This is the subject of a brief sketch in the February International, detailing the great humorist's activity in dictating new stories from the other side. "An Altered Circumstance" is a story by Alexander Harvey, and "Capital Punishment" is another by Aleister Crowley. William Simon writes on understanding Germany, and Ernst Hans Neufeld discusses government control of foreign loans.