

FIELDWAY COPPICE.

ld gold, post-vernal in perpetual purity
Of the earth-passion, sheds a manifold Glamour: ripe, rounded, rich, the light's unrolled
In Fieldway Coppice. Royal in security, Imperial love, divine in hot maturity, Bursts through the clouds, the seas, the mother-mould.
O Earth, inheritrix of sun-born gold,
Too rich, too ripe for man is this thy surety.

It is too much, this light! It is too sure To gaze upon! Too many gold-waves hurtle
Against man's blinded eyes: too royally spirtle
The sun-spears on his brain; thy golden lure O Mother-Earth, refrain: leave but thy myrtle;
That shall suffice; this passion is too pure!
