

THE YORKSHIRE POST AND
LEEDS INTELLIGENCER
LEEDS, YORKSHIRE, ENGLAND
5 FEBRUARY 1902
(page 5)

BOOKS TO READ AND BOOKS TO USE.

There is a distempered note in Aleister Crowley's book of verse, "A Mother's Tragedy." Were its transports governed by more discretion, as all are must be, they might affect us. As it is, we suspect the author will find them coldly viewed.