

THE CAMBRIDGE MAGAZINE
10 OCTOBER 1914

SUGGESTION BY AN OLD TRINITY MAN.

The following letter appeared recently in a London contemporary and attracted considerable attention:—

SIR,—Poetic justice to Rheims is possible. It is well within the power of modern builders to transplant thither Cologne Cathedral, stone by numbered stone. Let this be the symbol and monument of our victory.—Yours faithfully.

ALEISTER CROWLEY.

33, Avenue Studios,
South Kensington, S.W.
September 22nd.

Mr. Crowley, it will be remembered, was at Trinity College.