

THE DAILY EXPRESS
LONDON
3 MARCH 1923

Advertisement for the Sunday Express

SPLENDID READING OVER THE WEEK-END

The Truth About Aleister Crowley.

Through the black magic and practice of his perverted cult the "Beast," Aleister Crowley, precipitated the sad, untimely death of a brilliant young English undergraduate. His widow has arrived in England in a state bordering on collapse. Her determination to tell this country the whole truth has maintained her spirit during the writing of the Revelations which appear to-morrow.

THE DAILY EXPRESS, LONDON, 3 MARCH 1923.

SPLENDID READING OVER THE WEEK-END

Mr. James Douglas Stops in Paris En Route to Palestine.	Mr. JAMES DOUGLAS, on his way to Palestine with Lord Bessborough, has spent the first few days in Paris and Monte Carlo. To to-morrow's Sunday Express he gives a delightfully rare account of his first adventures on the great Expedition. This is Mr. James Douglas "all duty"—and he is irresistible.
Mr. Caradoc Evans "Have I Insulted the Welsh People?"	Undoubtedly, Caradoc Evans is the best hated man in Wales. His play, "Iago," performed this week in London, has aroused an enormous storm in Wales and widespread controversy in England. Answering his own question, "Have I insulted t'c Welsh?" Mr. Caradoc Evans indulges in some vigorous and vivid writing.
"Steve" Donoghue on "Doped" Horses.	Continuing his thrilling Mystery—exclusive to the Sunday Express—"Steve" tells of the "doping" of Racehorses. He sketches the case of one horse he was riding that actually dropped dead in the race!

The Truth About Aleister Crowley. Through the black magic and practice of his perverted cult the "Beast," Aleister Crowley, precipitated the sad, untimely death of a brilliant young English undergraduate. His widow has arrived in England in a state bordering on collapse. Her determination to tell this country the whole truth has maintained her spirit during the writing of the Revelations which appear to-morrow.

All These — and More — in To-morrow's
Sunday Express
ORDER NOW. TWOPENCE.