Hitler's English Guests.

Of the imposing role of Hitler's birthday guests, only two are from this country, and they have received private invitations. They are Lord Brocket, second holder of a barony created in 1933, and Major-General J.F.C. Fuller, the famous tank commander.

Lord Brocket was formerly Mr. Nall Nall-Cain, of Eton and Magdalen, and one time M.P. for the Wavertree Division of Liverpool. He is a member of the Hertfordshire Territorial Association, a Knight of Jerusalem, and hon. Treasurer of the League of Mercy. General Fuller is a prolific author, and has supported Mr. Lloyd George's indictment of the Paschendaele tragedy.
