NEW BOOKS BY ALEISTER CROWLEY

(Published Autumn 1929, by the Mandrake Press).

THE STRATAGEM: (Mandrake Booklets, 3s. 6d.) Three selected short stories (two humorous, one mystical) in the Author's best styles of brilliant wit, satire, and the macabre.

MOONCHILD: (Demy 8vo. pp. 340. 10s. 6d.) An entrancing novel, describing the magical operation by which a spirit of the moon was invoked into the being of an expectant mother, despite the machinations of the Black Lodge. Exciting plots and counterplots, passages of romance and serene poetic exaltation, flashes of humour and invective, and a lucid narrative style make this novel really memorable.
