

THE MYSTERY OF EXISTENCE. By CHARLES WICKSTEED ARMSTRONG. Longmans, Green and Co., 2s. 6*d.* net.

Ne pedagogus ultra flagellum—for Mr. Armstrong is a schoolmaster. All he does is to rearrange other people's prattle; and anyhow, I can't read him. He write "Carlisle" for "Carlyle," "future" when he means "later," and believes in castrating anybody who disagrees with him. Pp. 94, 123, and 114 respectively.
